Contact Questions, requests and feedback about this vip lesson english aj hoggThe present invention relates to an image processing apparatus, an image processing method, and a program. In a case where image data is recorded on a record medium, data in which the image data is encoded is stored in an encoded state for the purpose of efficient storage of the data. Upon reproducing the data, the data in which the image data is encoded is decoded so that the image data is reproduced. With this method, image data of a dynamic image is encoded, for example, for the purpose of reduction in size of the encoded data. The data encoded according to this encoding method has a small data size because the image data is encoded with high efficiency. However, in order to decode the data encoded according to this method, it is necessary to decode the data from the beginning. Therefore, a long time is required for the decoding process. In order to solve this problem, techniques have been proposed which can reduce the time required for decoding. For example, Japanese Patent Laid-Open No. 2002-355585 discloses a technique of performing a decoding process by referring to a shared table in which data on the decoding order of images is stored. However, the technique of the above-described patent document requires memory for storing the table. In addition, because the shared table must be updated in accordance with the progress of the decoding process, it is difficult to perform an appropriate decoding process with high accuracy.
